My dear Sir

Very sorry indeed was I to find Your card on my return home yesterday, as I should have much liked to see you. Mr. Lucas however sent me the note which you will appended to the second Chorale and I will take ^{care} that it is inserted in the programme.

I may take this opportunity of assuring you that it has given me very great pleasure to introduce your name into the programme and I have no doubt the Chorales will make a great effect, as we have another rehearsal, and they will be well known by the choir.

If you will do me the favor to call on Monday at one I shall be at home and very glad to see you. We can then make any little changes you may think desirable.

I enclose the tickets for the 27th together with a programme, by which you will see that I have been obliged to make a trifling alteration in the arrangements in consequence of the part song of Mr. Meaten not having been sent in sufficient time for its proper rehearsal -

Will you and Madame Goldschmidt give us the pleasure of your company to take a cup of coffee on the evening of the concert at 7 o'clock, and we can then afterwards go to the Hall where I will take you in without your being inconvenienced by the crowd?

Believe me, my dear Sir,

Sincerely yours

Henry Leslie
